Great Damage Done at Pittsburg; Little Apprehension is Felt Here

FIRE AND WATER THREATEN CITY

Dynamite Used to Stop Progress of Conflagration on Mount Washington--Business Suspended

LOSS WILL BE MILLIONS

Crest Passes That Point Today, Recording the Highest Stage in Century and Causing Great Suffering to People.

OHIO VALLEY IS INUNDATED.

Pittsburg, March 15.—The flood is receding an inch an hour. The crest reached here at 6 o'clock this morning with the highest record of a century, 36 feet and three inches. Ten square miles of thickly populated territory are under water and thousands are homeless. Business is suspended.

AT CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, March 15.—After remaining stationary five hours the river again began to rise at 9 o'clock. The weather forecaster says the river will rise ten feet by Saturday night and indications are that the high stage of January, '65, will be surpassed. Much damage has been done and many have been driven from homes.

Death and Destruction.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 15.—The record of the greatest flood in the history of Pittsburg which occurred in 1882, passed at midnight with the river still rising at a foot an hour. The situation at midnight is thus summarized:

Estimated property damage $10,000,000; enforced idleness of over 100,000 persons; the almost complete suspension of Pittsburg's manufacturing plants; the sacrifice of 14 lives which will probably be increased to 20; all train service annulled and trolley service out of commission; telegraph and telephone lines crippled; between 20,000 and 30,000 people homeless; hundreds of homes undermined and ready to collapse; theaters closed; guests marooned in hotels; thousands of families living in the second story of their homes and nearly all downtown sections of Pittsburg under water.

At 10:30 last night a stage of 34.9 was registered at the Market street wharf where the official harbor stage is taken.

Thousands Idle; Millions Lost.

The damage to perishable goods and property in Pittsburg district alone probably will exceed $2,000,000 in addition to much destruction done to property throughout western Pennsylvania and Virginia.

At Conneville, Pa., the damage to the coke region is estimated at $2,000,000.

Over 100,000 persons are temporarily out of employment. The Westinghouse works, employing 30,000 are shut down and the damage to machinery is estimated at $50,000. All mines along the Monongahela river are flooded and 10,000 miners are being affected. Steel and iron mills are at a standstill and fully 50,000 men idle. Hundreds of stores and business houses in the downtown section are partially submerged and have closed their doors. The flood directly affects 2,500,000 people.

Hundreds Living Upstairs.

In the suburbs of Aspin Wall, Sharpsburg, Etna, Millvale, over 500 families are living in the second story of their homes. Whole families are compelled to crowd into upstairs rooms, where in many cases they were left without fuel and supplies, the latter are now being distributed by men in skiffs. Many houses in these suburbs have been undermined and the foundations weakened and are in danger of collapsing. The greater portion of Monongahela is under water.

Hundreds of people are marooned

(Concluded on Page Eight.)

WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair tonight and Saturday with rising temperature. Highest temperature yesterday, 40; lowest today, 35.

BIG FIRE.

Pittsburg, March 15.—The plant of the American Sheet Tin Plate company was destroyed by fire this morning. The loss is $150,000. Fire was caused by a car of lime becoming ignited on account of the flood of the Monongahela river.

DANGER OF FIRE.

Pittsburg, March 15.—A disastrous fire on Mount Washington this morning destroyed 11 business houses and dwellings. Dynamite was used to check the hot flames. Firemen were obliged to use chemical engines as the pump that supplies the mount with water were incapacitated by the flood.

CORTELYOU'S TONIC.

New York, March 15.—It was a trembling market which opened this morning after a two days' attack of nervous prostration, though the opening prices were from 2 to 12 points up, the fever had not subsided and within fifteen minutes stocks were fluctuating wildly. The London market opened in a panic but braced and rallied considerably. Secretary Cortelyou's rush to the rescue after the close of the market last night will act as a sort of tonic.

NO NEWS.

Shanghai, March 15.—There is no confirmation of the report circulated yesterday coming from Chinese sources that the Wesleyan mission near Ningpo was destroyed and missionaries were killed.

PLOT FAILED.

St. Petersburg, March 15.—Through the falling of a large portion of the ceiling of the hall in which the duma sits, it is believed a plot to kill many deputies was frustrated. Over 200 seats in the chamber were smashed. The duma was not in session at the time. Today's session was suspended owing to the ruin of the chamber.

POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Georgetown, Ky., March 15.—Burglars entered the postoffice last night and worked the combination of the safe, opened the stamp drawer and secured $300 in money and stamps, and a number of valuable papers. An attempt to open the safe containing registered mail, failed.

ANOTHER ENTERS COUNTY CONTEST

J. D. Smith, one of the best known men in the county, is a candidate for representative from McCracken county on the Democratic ticket. He will announce formally in a few days. Mr. Smith ran several years ago against Circuit Clerk Miller, for the office Mr. Miller now holds. He has lived until recently in Heath where he ran a store. It is this Mr. Smith that the appointment to clerk of the Eddyville penitentiary was asked for by C. W. Emery and other Democratic leaders, and not J. D. Smith, Jr., the expert accountant. Mr. Smith's friends say he is the strongest candidate of the four now in the race. J. W. Skelton, Eugene Graves and W. T. McKinney are the other candidates.

WATER IS RISING BUT SLOWLY HERE

And Lacks Ten Feet of Stage Registered During the Flood in January--Little Fear of That Stage Again

SITUATION NOT ALARMING

Up River Points Are Expected to Suffer Again as They Did Before; But Only Heavy Rains Can Bring Trouble.

HOW LOCAL MEN LOOK AT IT.

Precipitate rising in the upper courses of the Ohio river make it rather probable that no serious stage will be reached here under present conditions. While the rises at Pittsburg and Cincinnati indicate a considerable volume of water, unless that water is re-inforced by local rains the length of the Ohio valley, a stage as high as in January for this point seems impossible. The rise in the upper Ohio has too much the appearance of a spurt which will spread itself out before it can reach the lower half of the river. It will require today's and tomorrow's reports of upper river conditions before any accurate prediction of the probable stage here can be made.

The river at this point rose only 3 in the last 24 hours. The stage this morning of 31.7 is exactly 14 feet lower than the highest stage reached in the January flood—45.7. That stage was reached January 28. Today's rise and for the next few days probably will show greater gains. The January flood was possible from the heaviest rainfall all along the valley, that has been recorded in the coal observer's office. However, with the river already well up, a given amount of water means more now than in January when the river had to make a longer climb up the banks.

The government prediction is for rapid rising in the Ohio river for the next few days. The cause of the flood is given as heavy rains in the mountains and tributaries above, and from melting snow. The unusually mild winter should make the water from melting snow less this year and the excessive rains of the first two months in the year probably will make for only a moderate rainfall throughout the spring. It was these conditions that led some of the local river men to expect less of a spring rise than usual.

The Cumberland and Tennessee rivers fortunately at this time are not rising significantly. The Wabash shows some indications of rising and the most serious aspect is the rising tendency in the Mississippi river. The Mississippi river acts like a dam on the Ohio river. A stage of the Ohio river that would not be serious when the Mississippi river is low, becomes dangerous when that river is high, forcing the Ohio back and holding the water up. It is probable that the rising conditions in the Mississippi river, more than in the Ohio, caused the river men at Cairo to advise against the gunboat Wasp coming on to Paducah.

With fourteen feet to go yet before the river gets to the highest stage reached in January, river men here are not anticipating great inconvenience from the floods above. They say that the rise at Pittsburg, while phenomenal, is too sudden to be lasting. If it is sustained, a high stage will be reached here. Already the river at Cincinnati and Pittsburg is above the flood stage and may go higher than 1884 for those cities. Before the flood reaches Paducah, provided it is not swelled by local rains, it will be harmless.

KILLS SWEETHEART.

New Orleans, March 15.—Whitney Moller shot and killed Eduez Dobson at Point Alaatche last night and then killed himself. He asked her repeatedly to marry him and she refused.

BUT IT DOESN'T STOP HIS BARKING.

—Bartholomew in Minneapolis Journal.

WASP NOT COMING IS LATEST WORD

Mayor Yeiser and Commercial Club Endeavor to Induce Commander to Change His Mind and Visit the City of Paducah.

THE CAIRO BRIDGE IS OBSTACLE

Washington, March 15.—For the first time in American history a warship flying the colors of the United States will ascend the Ohio river to Evansville, Ind. Congressman Hemenway has promised this. The gunboat Wasp was selected for the service.

Because the commander of the gunboat Wasp fears that the tide in the Ohio river will prevent the craft going under the Illinois Central bridge at Cairo on her return trip, it has been decided that the gunboat shall not come to Paducah. She will tie up at Cairo several days to coal before starting on her return trip to the gulf.

The Commercial club had made arrangements to entertain the officers of the Wasp during their stay in Paducah, and members of the club were disappointed to learn it would not come. This morning Secretary Coons wired the officer in command asking that he bring his boat to the city, and assuring him that local river officials think there is no danger of the boat not being able to get under the bridge at Cairo. Mayor Yeiser also wired a message to the same effect, and both officials think there is a probability that the request will be granted.

P. J. Cheever, advance agent for the gunboat Wasp held a long distance consultation this morning with Commander Croghan of the Wasp, in which the commander expressed his regret at the inability of the Wasp to come to Paducah. He said it is possible that a recruiting party may come on to Paducah by rail, anyway. The Wasp is scheduled to leave Cairo Monday for the south. If it is seen that the river will fall, the gunboat may come on to Paducah next week. Cheever will leave tonight for Cairo to join the gunboat.

The government will install a forest reserve telephone service in the Big Horn reserve in Wyoming, at a cost of $5,000. It is designed for summoning help to fight forest fires.

STRIKE SETTLED TRAFFIC RESUMED

Louisville Street Railway Company and Men Agree on Compromise Satisfactory to Both Sides to the Controversy.

ARBITRATION PLAN ADOPTED.

Louisville, March 15.—Following the agreement reached between the company and employees the street car service was resumed on all lines this morning. Almost all the old employees are at work and regular schedules are observed.

The terms of the settlement provide for an increase from 18 to 20 cents an hour for new men and 22 cents an hour for all employees after the first year; 25 cents an hour overtime; at least thirty minutes for lunch; all strikers to be restored to their old position, and an open shop for the company in reference to the hiring of new men.

The point of recognizing the union and establishing a straight closed shop was conceded by the executive committee for the strikers, who received in return the promise that the company will in future settle all differences between it and employees through a permanent arbitration committee appointed by the men.

SERIES OF MISHAPS ATTEND AERIAL TRUCK IN FAST RUN TODAY

As the aerial ladder was on the way answering an alarm sent in from Fifth street and Kentucky avenue this afternoon at 1:20 o'clock, Morris Ingram, the driver, was thrown from the seat and his right leg was sprained. While making the turn at Fourth street and Kentucky avenue "Walter" the horse on the left slipped and fell on the smooth street. Before the heavy truck could be stopped he had been dragged over the street and onto the sidewalk. A deep gash was cut above his right foreleg. A buggy was struck by the truck and the horse was frightened and ran, hitting the buggy of Street Inspector Alonzo Elliott.

CHANGE IN HOURS TO BE ABANDONED

Prof. Carnagey Suggests a Plan of Sessions to the School Board

WILL RELIEVE THE CONGESTION

Eighth Grade Distributed Between Washington and Longfellow Buildings.

PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL

While the proposition to shorten the hours of the school day has been laid before the public by the school board for expression of opinion, as far as a majority of the members of the board are concerned, no material change will be made in the present schedule. It is known by the board also, what Prof. J. A. Carnagey's ideas along this line are, and as public opinion seems to be dormant on the question, with the exception of the Alumni association and perhaps one or two other clubs, the action of the board in this instance practically is settled.

As suggested by Professor Carnagey, the superintendent-elect in conversation with some of the members of the board, the schools will open fifteen minutes later in the morning, at 8:45 o'clock. A recess of fifteen minutes will be given in both morning and afternoon sessions. At noon the schools will dismiss at 11:45 o'clock as at present. On the question of resuming after dinner, the ideas of the members of the board vary with Professor Carnagey's suggestions only a few minutes. He prefers that the schools resume at 1:15 o'clock, as at present, while some of the members prefer to extend the noon recess to 1:30 o'clock, giving the children an hour and 45 minutes. Prof. Carnagey would dismiss the schools at 3:50 o'clock while the members who would make the noon recess longer, would dismiss at 4 o'clock. In any event the difference in the schedule is only five minutes, and the board will not have a hitch in settling this point. A trustee discussing the shorter hour proposition this morning said:

"After canvassing the members of the board and summing up public opinion in the mass, as best as I could, I can say confidently that no change to the one session school day will be made. In the schedule I have outlined, ample allowance has been made for the children not becoming wearied by the long hours in schools, as suggested by the advocates of one session. It is a matter of fact that many of the school children with duties around the home find it rushes them to get to school at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, and the fifteen minute reduction in the hours there will be beneficial. At noon an extension of the recess fifteen minutes is considered advisable by some of the trustees to prevent these children who have to walk long distances, entering the afternoon session breathless and hot from the hurried walk backward and forward. With the recesses allowed and the reductions in the hours, it seems the best arrangement that can be made for the accommodation of all concerned, and in this we have the approval of Prof. Carnagey, and of Superintendent Lieb."

Eighth Grade Change.

While Prof. Carnagey was here on his last visit the trustees held a long consultation with him on the questions before them for settlement. His ideas along every line the board expects to act in the April session are known and they coincide in all essential respects with the ideas of the trustees. As announced in THE SUN, the present arrangement of having all the eighth grade pupils in the city attend the Washington building, will be modified. Professor Carnagey and the majority of the trustees favor placing an eighth grade in the Longfellow building, Fifth street and Kentucky avenue, and one in the Franklin building on South Sixth street. All the pupils from the south side of the city and from the northeast section of the city will be taken away from the Washington building and distributed in these two new grades. The eighth grade at the Washington building will be retained, and under the new arrangement will be a normal grade.

Another large house greeted "the second presentation in Paducah of "Madam Satan," last night at The Kentucky by Willard Mack, Maude Leone and company. The bill was repeated by request. It was the opening attraction of the company's first engagement here, and many who saw Miss Leone in the title role demanded that she play it again. The part of the "Madam Satan" suits the physical charms and dramatic powers of the leading lady and the costumes worn in the play were the admiration of the women of the audience last night. Tonight an extraordinary bill is offered—the first presentation at popular prices of "The Christian," Hall Caine's masterpiece, in which Viola Allen starred successfully.

features ever introduced on parade or on the stage concerns the Cotton Pickers' band of minstrel musicians led by Robert Leach, the colored Creator with the "Dandy Dixie Minstrels", which will be the attraction at The Kentucky for matinee and night on next Monday. This clever band of musicians comprises one of the most formidable features of the Dandy Dixie minstrels, having been selected for their individual ability as soloists and the great success with which they met during the all summer season of the Dandy Dixie minstrels at the Wistaria Grove, atop the New York theater last summer. Campbell Bros., the black aristocrats, head the company of 40 comedians, singers, dancers and specialty performers.

"Strongheart."

"Strongheart," the college play, in which Robert Edeson will appear here on next Tuesday night, is creating much interest among theatergoers of this city, as the demand for seats is unusually large. The play tells the story of an educated full-blooded Indian, who is finishing a post-graduate course at Columbia University, New York, who is a past master at football, a good fellow and a friend to everybody who knows him, but because of his love for a Caucasian, finds that the "knife of prejudice has cut the ties of friendship" and that he has been ostracized from their set because he is an Indian. The play is extremely novel, is absolutely unique and original, as an Indian hero has never before been utilized for stage purposes. Mr. Edeson's characterization of the Redskin is said to be one of the most delightful bits of acting seen in this country in a long time; the play has proved a notable success and the company, whose number is twenty-five, is said to be one of excellence. The scenes have to do with college life and are in consequence full of good genuine comedy.

Georgia Minstrels.

The excellent department of the entire company on the streets, in the theater, and in fact everywhere, is one of the noticeable things with Richards & Pringle's Famous Georgia Minstrels. People remark daily on the way the boys carry and behave themselves. They are never seen hanging about saloons and tough negro dives, or associating with loose characters. It is this discipline that makes it possible for them to give such a really excellent performance as they do. They will appear at The Kentucky on Friday, March 22.

With one of the most beautiful days in the year, the announcement that the gunboat Wasp would not come to Paducah caused general disappointment. All through the day the wharfoat office has been busy answering the queries of people living in the country, who wanted to know whether the gunboat was coming. The indications were for the biggest crowd to see the boat that ever came to the city to see any river attraction. It is the general opinion of river men here that the Wasp easily could have come to Paducah and remained here today and tomorrow. It will be that time before the effects of the heavy rise above can be felt here, and with seven feet still clear under the bridge at Cairo, for the river to rise that rapidly seems improbable. The Wasp has short smokestacks, but the mast pole, 60 feet from the keel, would strike the bridge should the river rise higher. It was suggested that if some local authorities took an interest and invited the boat on here anyway, the plans might be changed. It is possible that the threatened rise will be past before the Wasp goes south and the gunboat may come here next week.

George Howe, a river clerk well known here, has gone on the Saltillo as third clerk.

The City of Saltillo arrived from St. Louis at 7 o'clock this morning getting under the bridge at Cairo easily. The Saltillo had a capacity trip and left after unloading for the Tennessee river.

The Peters Lee is expected to arrive this afternoon late from Memphis on the way to Cincinnati.

The Reaper was looking for a deck crew this morning to get away for Pittsburg with a tow of empties. The Harvester passed up last night with 23 empties laboring against the strong current. It will be hard for the two towboats to breast the crest of the flood coming down.

Business with the John Hopkins in the Evansville trade today was good. The Monie Bauer is doing harbor work now for the St. Bernard Coal company.

The Mary N. is laid up for a new shaft. The woodwork of the wheel is completed.

The Scotia has returned from the Tennessee river with a tow of ties. The Georgia Lee will arrive Saturday night or Sunday morning from Cincinnati on the way to Memphis.

The I. N. Hook will arrive from the Cumberland river today with a tow of ties. While up the Cumberland river the Hook "bagged" one of the bollers.

The Charles Turner probably will get away today or tomorrow for the Tennessee river after ties.

The Dick Fowler got away with a good trip for Cairo this morning and will hitch the Wasp on behind to bring the gunboat up here anyway tonight.

Late but with the good excuse of big business, the Kentucky arrived from the Tennessee river this morning and will leave tomorrow afternoon on the return trip.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt. Vernon, will continue rising rapidly during the next several days, passing the flood stage at Evansville to night or this morning, and at Mt. Vernon tonight. At Paducah and Cairo, will continue rising during the next several days at an increasing rate.

The Tennessee, from Florence to the mouth, will rise during the next 24 to 36 hours, with flood stage indicated for Johnsonville on present rise.

The Mississippi, from below St. Louis to Cairo, will continue rising during the next 24 hours.

The Wabash, at Mt. Carmel and Vincennes, will continue rising during the next 24 hours to 36 hours, probably reaching a stage of 20 or more at Mt. Carmel.

AVOID LUNG TROUBLE

Take one-half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine and eight ounces of good Whisky. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. It is said to break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says if this simple and effective formula was known and generally used, throat, lung and bronchial affections would seldom reach an acute stage. Care should be used to select pure ingredients, and to avoid substitution it is best that they be purchased separately and mixed in your own home.

The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials put up expressly for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure). Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act of June 30th 1906, serial number 451. Prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, Ohio,—plainly printed thereon. Only the cheaper Oils are sold in bulk, but these produce nausea and never effect the desired results.

Smith Case Next Monday.

Louisville, March 15.—After a conference between W. M. Smith, attorney for William B. Smith, former president of the Western National bank, and Judge George DuRelle yesterday morning at the opening of the United States court, Judge Evans agreed to set the case for a special hearing next Monday.

New Suit in Hargis Feud Case.

Lexington, Ky., March 15.—Suit to recover $100,000 damages was filed last night in the Fayette county circuit court against James Hargis, Edward Callahan and Ebert Hargis, by T. P. Cardwell, Sr., guardian for Edward Cox, Lucie Cox and Brackie Cox, children of Dr. B. D. Cox and infants under 14 years old. The petition alleged that the defendants conspired with others to murder Cox.

Both Sides Want Election.

Bowling Green, Ky., March 15.—A rather peculiar and unusual state of affairs developed here yesterday, when the saloon men and the prohibitionists both began circulating a petition asking the court to call an election to vote on the whiskey in the city. Both petitions are identically alike and ask for an election to be held in June.

It is said that the saloonists hearing that the anti's were out with a petition thought it was for an election to be held in emf emf fwp p p p in the county, including the city, and their petition was asking for a separate election for the city. The town will be close, while in the county it is prohibition by a large majority.

Kellock Known at Mayfield.

Mayfield Ky., March 15.—"According to the stories going the rounds of the police department and turnkeys of the county prison the jail has never held a more desperate or murderous inmate than Charles Kellock, accused of being one of the trio of cracksmen who did their best to kill Policemen Wood and Orr Tuesday when the patrolmen caught them blowing the safe of Denker's grocery, at Eighth and Harris streets," says a Paducah paper.

"According to City Marshal Chas. McNutt, the prisoner, was in Mayfield for several days and sold a trunk of whiskey from a room in a hotel before the Mayfield police force were given the tip by the hotel clerk. But when the town marshal of Mayfield was in Paducah Tuesday he identified Kellock as the man who had helped to irrigate his town at $1 a pint from the best room in a main hotel, too."

Mme. Schumann-Heink recently had her life insured for $100,000, $80,000 of which is made payable to her children. Before she took out this policy she was insured for $35,000.

In 1617 a book was written which no doubt foreshadowed wireless telegraphy. It mentions the communication between two persons at different points by means of a lodestone and a needle placed on a metal dial.

These large, clean stove flues mean a saving to you.

The secret of the success of Buck's stoves and ranges lies largely in their flue system. The extra large flues—direct the heat where it is needed—and used—give a perfect draft—a free and complete circulation of heat around the oven. There are no "cut-offs" or obstructions to clog and cause trouble.

All heat is put to good use in a Buck's stove or range—which means a saving of fuel to you.

Let us tell you about these out-of-the-ordinary stoves—and let us tell you about our especially attractive terms and prices—today.

A dollar down and a dollar a week will buy one of these splendid stoves. You surely can't afford to miss this chance. Take advantage of it today.

We Want You Mothers to See the Splendid Things We Have in Boys' Apparel

IF there is one thing that will appeal to mothers it is our Children's Department. It receives the best attention of experts, as it is our effort to make buying a pleasure for parents instead of the usual drudge.

Our spring displays comprehend everything the best markets afford. All those pretty styles for boys in the Sailor Suits, the Russian Blouse, in the new browns and grays and white flannels, destined to be so popular, naturally find place here. So, too, do all the offerings in their great varieties, of this season.

The price range is from $3.50 to $10.00.

In Hats and Caps we show some very handsome new things. The Peter Pans and the new shades of tans will be very much in favor, and the colonial shapes are lively bidders for attention.

AMERICAN DRINKING HABITS

A Large Increase in the Use of Bottled Beer.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Officials of the internal revenue bureau say that the people of this country are largely increasing their consumption of American bottled beers. When asked why this is, they attribute it to a greatly increased family use of this beverage. Furthermore, they look upon it with favor as conducing to temperance.

"It is a matter of widespread note," said this official, "that the consumption of beer is increasing at a great rate, while the consumption of strong drinks is decreasing, compared to increase of population. I assume that the big increase in consumption of bottled beers is due to several causes. One, of course, is that the people like them. The other is the growing temperance sentiment. The amount of alcohol in it is small, and people feel no evil consequences of its use. There is a growing sentiment that temperance is surer and better promoted by the development of a taste for mild drinks than by prohibition laws. Beer seems to be best adapted for this purpose. Although wine would, perhaps, answer the purpose also, and most excellent wines are produced in California, and many parts of our country are well adapted to wine culture, yet wine has greater alcoholic strength than beer, is not as cheap, and, for some reason or other, the American people do not see into favor it.

"There was a time, especially in the South when the whisky decanter had a prominent place on every side board. Not so now. Instead, bottled beer is stored in the refrigerators of many residences. There can be no doubt that the marked continual decrease of drunkenness, is, to some extent, due to the substitution of beer for strong drink."

It is told of the Rt. Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, D. D., LL. D., who had not attended an important conference at Lambeth Palace, London, that during a very formal function he and his wife were loudly announced as "the Bishop of Misery and Mrs. Tuttle!"—Harper's Weekly.

MARKET STOCKED FOR A PURPOSE

Suspicion in Minds of Many People at Washington

Part of Stage Setting For Visit of Railroad Kings to President Roosevelt.

LATTER WILL REMAIN FIRM

Washington, D. C., March 15.—There is a strong suspicion in the minds of some people that the panicky conditions in the New York stock market today were carefully engineered by certain persons for the express purpose of influencing the mind of the president and of "throwing a scare into the administration." It seems remarkable, to say the least, that E. H. Harriman should have been here one week, that Yockum, Stickney, and Garrett, representing the Rock Island, Great Western and Seaboard Air Line, should all have arrived in Washington and given out alarmist interviews within a few days, while on Monday evening J. Pierpont Morgan himself made a hurried trip to Washington, saw the president, arranged for a big railroad conference, and left for Europe.

Some people seem to see a coincidence in the fact that Mr. Morgan was hardly out of sight of land before panicky conditions developed in the stock market. Money had not been high previously and except for the fact that the Pennsylvania, North-western, and other roads have been in the market for subscriptions which culminate on Friday, there has been no anticipated reason for the extraordinary slump all along the line.

It is not believed that Mr. Morgan would be a party to a premeditated panic in Wall street. He has too much to lose. Nevertheless, it is considered strange that immediately after his visit to the white house, when he predicted all sorts of gloomy things to the president, he should go to sea so as to prove an alibi, and thereupon a mild panic breaks over Wall street and sweeps all prices down before it.

Roosevelt Not Frightened.

If the Wall street manipulators have any idea they can frighten the president by a purely stock panic they have missed their guess most woefully. The general railroad and corporation policy of the administration, it can be asserted upon good authority, is not in any way dependent on stock market prices. It is more than likely that the president, in common with a good many other men, has no special objection to seeing the water squeezed out of some of the so-called railroad "securities."

The administration is engaged in no crusade against the railroads nor against the corporations. Mr. Morgan's visit to the white house will not, it is believed, materially alter the policy of President Roosevelt. That policy can best be discovered by an examination of his public messages and speeches. He believes the railroad is entitled to a square deal and he will not be a party to any crusade against them. At the same time, he believes the people are entitled to fair rates without discriminations as between a small shipper and a large one.

The president's policy as far as it can be outlined does not involve any new legislation hostile to the railroads, except so far as it seeks to determine a fair basis of capitalization, so that the interstate commerce commission may be enabled to fix a fair tariff rate without regard to watered stock, or shadowy bonds, or the gayly printed chromos which have been issued in such profusion by "wizards" of Wall street.

Plans for the Conference.

Preliminary steps have been taken toward arranging for the conference of railroad presidents suggested by Mr. Morgan. The president will listen to everything they have to say, but, on the other hand, he will have a few things to say himself. His purpose will not be affected by the stock market flurry of today. He has made that clear to all who called on him, not so much by what he has said as by what he has not said.

In conference with the secretary of the treasury today, President Roosevelt took the usual steps to restore confidence on the street. These steps were of a purely financial character, and have nothing to do with the railroad and corporation policy of the administration. If the railroad presidents want to frighten the administration they must first produce a business panic, not a stock market panic. Every report received by the administration thus far, and every scrap of knowledge in possession of the financial officers of the government, shows that the business of the country is abnormally prosperous and that the price of railroad securities in Wall street does not in any way reflect the conditions of the legitimate commerce of the country.

THE HAND OF ESAU.

For no other purpose, it would seem, than to show what a sorry figure an enlightened press may cut when it falls from the fourth estate to the low level of a mouthpiece for somebody with an ax to grind, the News-Democrat delivered itself of this inspired message:

"The very men who a short while back were trying to form a league to run the public schools are now trying to tell the school board what it should not do to 'tie the hands' of the newly elected superintendent. Do not these soreheads know that the school trustees were chosen to run the schools and not to delegate that duty to any one man or any part of the board? All the late rows in the school's grew out of this one man or small committee power, and the school trustees want no more of it and they clearly intend not to have any more of it. * * * The board as a whole will know better what it wishes than any small part or any one man, no matter how competent the part or the man may be."

Since our own voice is the only one that has been lifted in protest, although we believe we represent the sentiment of the thinking people, and THE SUN speaks for no faction, we assume the word "gang" is used in its figurative sense, and our esteemed contemporary delicately attributes to us numerical strength in recognition of our influence in the community.

This is what the N.-D. means: under the system heretofore in vogue, the principals have made reports and recommendations concerning teachers to the superintendent. The superintendent has made reports and recommendations, embodying those of the principals, to the school board. A committee of the board has considered these recommendations, and adding to these, knowledge of conditions gained from any source within their power, has made reports back to the board, recommending the election of the requisite number of teachers. On this report the board has always acted, as it pleased. It is simply ridiculous to imply by any sort of innuendo that the school board as a whole has not elected teachers. In no other way may they be elected. On the other hand, to think of twelve men taking up the election of teachers in open meeting without any preliminary investigation by a committee and without the aid of recommendations by the superintendent and the principals, is to laugh. It is folly to look on the teachers and principals and superintendent as so many hirelings, one of whom is invested with the title of superintendent and given certain executive duties to perform, but no real authority over subordinates, who may carry questions of practice and discipline over his head to the board. Discipline is the cornerstone of the school system. Without it teachers can do nothing with the children. Without it the superintendent and principals can do nothing with the teachers. There can be no concordance of departments if the superintendent's word is not law. And if his recommendations and reports of school affairs are not to be considered by the board, pray, how is the school board to acquire any information about a teacher's work?

If, as the News-Democrat says, the "trustees were elected to run the schools," why go to the expense of bringing a trained expert on school matters here merely for the purpose of performing certain perfunctory administrative duties which any experienced teacher is capable of performing?

We confidently assert that the school trustees were not chosen to run the schools. They are representatives of the people, chosen to administer certain well defined functions for the benefit of the tax paying public; but the superintendent is employed to run the schools, under the authority vested in him by the board, and the better man he is and the more latitude he is allowed, the better the schools will be. You may chirrup as cheerfully as you may that the trustees are chosen to run the schools, but the system will reflect the character of the superintendent, and when the board interferes with his prerogatives, the schools will feel the effect.

There is a menace, a warning in the quotation. We do not hold the N.-D. responsible. It is but the instrument through which the warning is sounded; but we see sinister clouds ahead for the new superintendent in this inspired doctrine, that the "trustees were chosen to run the schools," and not this, "one man power."

Following the assertion of Commander Booth of the Salvation Army, that there is no tainted money, President Needham of George Washington University, spreads out his apron to the golden flow from the horn of plenty, and says: "I will accept it from any man, who owns it." There is no taint inherent in the money, but there is a taint when seats of learning join in an undignified scramble for wealth and sell degrees to men who have nothing to show for a life of activity but a lot of money. The taint is in the administration of such schools. Not only does the insidious danger lie in the influence which the man of money may exercise over the schools, but in the spirit manifested, which will affect the student body and set up false standards of success in life.

Since it has become an issue in the present Democratic fracas, THE SUN will state once and for all, it never said that former Mayor Lang was in the city hall seeking the "record of Chas. Reed," or delving "into the past record of Mr. Reed."

PITTSBURG, MOVE UP.

The eleven largest cities of the United States may be grouped in three classes. First come New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, with populations above a million. Then come St. Louis, Boston and Baltimore with populations of between five and six hundred thousand. And finally Cleveland, Buffalo, San Francisco, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh with populations between three and four hundred thousand. Among these Pittsburgh is, according to the last census, at the bottom of the list.

On Friday of next week, however, Pittsburgh will move forward into the next higher class, making a start there at the bottom of the list. Her rank among the cities will be seventh instead of eleventh.

Friday is the day when the consolidation of Allegheny and Pittsburgh will take place. The supreme court of Pennsylvania has just affirmed the judgment of the lower courts to the effect that the consolidation act is constitutional, and the last doubts of the two cities and the last hopes of the opponents of consolidation have been ended.

Greater Pittsburgh will have an area of thirty-eight square miles, 1,194 acres of parks, 115 school buildings and $40,500,000 of municipal property.—Chicago Record-Herald.

HARRY THAW KNEW

RIGHT AND WRONG

Opinion of Jerome's Expert On His Sanity

Hummel's Testimony Is Admitted and District Attorney May Be Called To Stand.

STATE HAS ITS OWN INNINGS

New York, March 15.—Dr. William Hirsch of Cornell Medical college, was the first expert witness called by Jerome in the Thaw trial today. He was called that he might answer a hypothetical question as to the mental condition of Thaw at the time of killing White. Witness said he had read the Longfellow letters and will codify and the letters Thaw wrote to Anthony Comstock, complaining of White. In answer to the question the witness said Thaw was not laboring under a defect of reasoning and knew his act was wrong when he killed White.

Say Thaw Was Sane.

Answering precisely the same hypothetical questions in response to which alienists of the defense declared that Thaw was suffering from unsound mind and did not know the nature or quality of his act when he killed White, Dr. Austin Flint, the first expert called today by Jerome in rebuttal, declared it to be his opinion that Thaw positively did know the nature and quality of his act and knew the act was wrong.

After repeating to Flint the same question which Delmas put to the experts for the defense and having him declare that Thaw was sane on the assumption of facts stated therein, Jerome had read to witness, the prosecution's hypothetical question which contained 15,000 words and which required one hour and 18 minutes in reading. Flint again said without qualification that Thaw knew his act was wrong and was therefore liable for murder in the first degree under the statutes of New York.

Delmas indicated that he would cross-examine each expert searching.

Hummel's Testimony Stands.

Abraham Hummel was on the stand again and before Delmas could object to a question put to him by Jerome the witness had got into record the statement that Evelyn Nesbit had told him that she had informed Thaw in Paris in 1903 that White positively had not drugged or betrayed her. Delmas at first moved to have the question, and answer stricken from record, but as the district attorney was about to consent to this plea, the counsel for defense suddenly insisted that the answer stand.

Hummel's further testimony was halted until Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw again takes the stand to testify as to whether or not Hummel was acting as her attorney when she made statements to him which were afterwards embodied in an affidavit.

It was reported that Jerome may be called to the stand in rebuttal.

RICH BLOOD THE SECRET OF HEALTH.

Druggist W. B. McPherson Strongly Recommends Vinol for the Blood.

"The blood should have 95 per cent. red corpuscles. With a less amount come weakness, sickness and suffering."

"We see every day on our streets many people whose faces plainly show impure, impoverished blood."

"We want everybody in Paducah to know that Vinol purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, increases the red corpuscles and creates strength."

"This is because Vinol contains in a highly concentrated form all the medicinal, blood making and body-building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, the useless oil eliminated, and tonic iron, a needful constituent for the blood added."

"We guarantee Vinol will purify and enrich the blood, create strength, and build up every run-down person in Paducah, or return the money in every case where it fails." W. B. McPherson, Druggist.

Note—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Paducah, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

by the defense. The purpose, it was said, was to question Jerome as to certain actions against Hummel, who was a witness today. This move was taken as a reason for the defense allowing much of Hummel's testimony to stand in the record.

CHANGE IN HOURS

(Concluded from First Page.)

The extra teachers now employed to handle the extra pupils concentrated at this building, will be placed in the two new rooms.

Principalship.

Several advantages are expected to result from this change. It will lessen the congestion at the Washington building; the distance to be walked to school now by the eighth grade pupils all over the city, will be lessened and equalized, and the way will be paved for the change in the principalship at the Washington building. At present, Professor Payne is the principal of both the High school and the grammar grades. His work was heavy and the care of the grammar grades heretofore has been given to the assistant principal of the High school. With the reduction in the eighth grade, it is expected, to drop the assistant principalship and give the whole building to the principalship, which now carries a somewhat larger salary.

To take some of the clerical duties off of Professor Carnagey, a clerk probably will be employed by the board for a while each month. In this way it is expected to give Professor Carnagey leisure to devote his whole time to the work. At the April meeting of the board, the principal of the different buildings will be elected.

March Is a Trying Month.

"Nor love, nor honor, wealth nor power,
Can give the heart a cheerful hour,
When health is lost. Be timely wise,
With health all taste of pleasure flies."

March is conceded by local physicians to be the worst month in the year in Paducah, in the point of the extent of sickness. The quick changes in the temperature, warm one day, chilly, with penetrating winds the next affect the physical condition probably more than any season of the year.

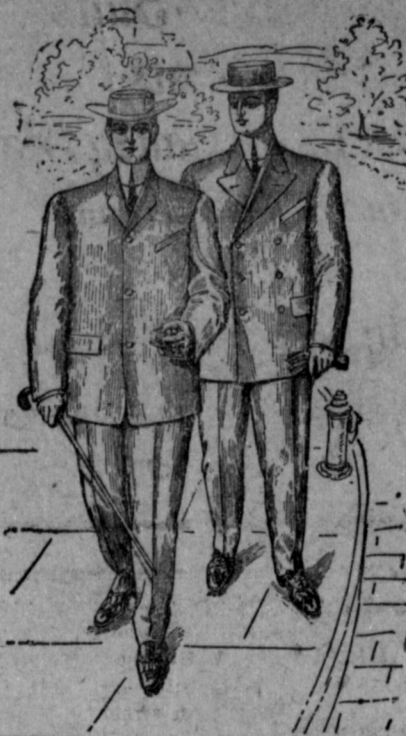

The only safeguard therefore is to get yourself in good condition. The liver, the blood, the kidneys, the skin should be in first class order or you can not stand the trying month. Osteopathy, quickly naturally restore any disarrangement to any of these essentials of good health. The torpid liver, the disordered kidneys, the poor blood supply or circulation readily yield to its health giving methods.

The treatment is simplicity itself, sane, rational, without the use of harmful drugs. It cures by scientific manipulation to restore the normal functions to each organ. It recognizes, appreciates and uses proper diet, air, water, exercise and other natural hygienic measures, too.

A trite saying is "Seeing is believing," so I shall be pleased to refer you, if you are interested, to any number of people you know well who can attest to the virtues of the treatment in liver, stomach, bowels, rheumatic, asthma, malaria, neuralgia and nervous condition.

Call me at 1407 or call at my office, 516 Broadway, at any time between 9 and 12 a. m. or 2 and 5 p. m. Dr. G. B. Froage.

JACKSON GOES DRY.

Liquor Men and Anti-Saloon League in Wrangle.

Jackson, Tenn., March 15.—The election to abolish the saloons of Jackson, participated in by the registered white voters, resulted 934 dry to 3 wet.

The heaviest registered vote the city has cast was in the mayoralty race last June, 1,546 whites and colored. The entire vote of the city and fifteenth district last November for the legislative ticket was about 900.

It is now up to the representatives in the legislature from this county to present a bill to the legislature asking that the charter be abolished, so that the city can reincorporate under the Pendleton bill, extending the Adams law. It is stated that the actual registered vote is less than 1,700, including negroes.

The liquor people claim the total white legal representation to be 2,334 for the four wards of the city, and claim that as the dry people received only 934 votes they are short of half of the registered voters by 233 votes and claim that Jackson must remain wet as results show, according to the temperance people's own contention.

After eliminating the names of the dead, of those who have removed from the city and the duplicate registrations, the Anti-Saloon league announces that the white registered vote is approximately 1,500.

IN THE COURTS

Police Court.

Police court was not long this morning but a variety of crimes were up for trial. Jim Bulger, a saloonkeeper, of Mechanicsburg, undertook to reform his wife from what he considers the error of her ways, by giving her an old-fashioned husbandly whipping. The punishment was given at Flora Woods' house on Jones street, between Seventh and Eighth streets. Officers Gray and Dugan arrested Bulger and when his case was presented in police court this morning, it was continued on account of a lack of witnesses until March 18.

The captain of one of the towboats thought so much of two of his deckhands that he came down to police court this morning and paid off a fine of $5 and costs each, against George Massey and Joe Riley. They had engaged in a profanity match, which was unpleasant to the general public.

The defense of his assailed virtue, cost James Kilgore one cent in police court this morning. He knocked down Pete Ross, colored, last night for using insulting language toward him. Ross hurried one of the largest assortments of "cuss" words at Kilgore, the police ever heard, and was fined $20 and full costs. Kilgore was talking with the naval recruiting officer when Ross butted in.

Thad Halstead was arrested in Fisherville last night by Patrolman Hurley for carrying concealed a deadly weapon. He was found to be only 15 years old and was transferred to the juvenile court.

Roy Thompson was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness in police court, Mattie McCann, an old offender and a white woman, was fined $1 and costs also for drunkenness. Lewis Roden for abusing a colored woman was continued to March 16. A warrant was issued this morning for Jim Kendrick, colored, for striking his step-daughter with a chair. He lives on Eleventh street between Husbands and Caldwell streets.

HARRIMAN TALKS ABOUT RAILROADS

Takes Newspapers Into His Confidence Once More

Direct Reasoning and Figures Show Just What Present Agitation Means.

SOLUTION OF CAR SHORTAGE.

New York, March 15.—Beyond the slightest doubt inner Wall street believes a check to general business has resulted from the railroad situation, and that this check will grow more apparent. The activity of state legislatures has aroused thoroughly the large railroad interests of the country. The cost of borrowing money has been increased and there will be a marked reduction in expenditures.

In an interview given by E. H. Harriman to the Tribune correspondent on certain features of the railroad situation he said that two kinds of courage are needed in developing and directing the affairs of a great railroad system. One is to make large expenditures when times are dull and the business outlook poor, and this secure labor, money and material at low cost.

The other kind of courage, he said, is to be able to discontinue the expenditure of funds and the making of improvements when business is good, money dear, and labor high. This kind of courage, he said, would enable the railroad by waiting two or three years to make improvements at a reduction of 20 per cent in the cost of labor, money and materials. He considered such a saving a good profit for shareholders.

What Railway Economy Means.

When Mr. Harriman was subsequently asked what would be the effect on general business of the withdrawal of the railroads from the iron and steel markets, he replied:

"I do not wish to answer that question. I have been asked it before."

"Would a check to business be the worst thing that could happen?"

"It might not be an unmixed evil," Mr. Harriman said. "The railroads now have more business than they can handle. A slowing up would mean the curtailment of expenditures, an increase in the surplus of the roads. It would mean also a lessened demand for labor and a reduced demand for money. These in consequence would become cheaper."

Effect of Dear Money.

"Let me illustrate the effect of a high charge for money. Within the last year the rate of interest on money loans has increased 50 per cent. Undoubtedly the New Haven road could have borrowed money a year ago at 4 per cent. It is now obliged to pay 5 per cent. In this case there is an increase of 25 per cent. Get clear in your mind the effect of this. If the New Haven road has $4,000,000 to spend for the hire of money it would be able to borrow $100,000,000 at 4 per cent, at 5 per cent its $4,000,000 would pay interest on only $80,000,000."

"Suppose it has only $4,000,000 with which to pay interest—we can see that instead of the New Haven road having $100,000,000 to spend for improvements and for labor, it would have but $80,000,000 to spend. Take the roads throughout the country reducing expenditures $20,000,000 here, $10,000,000 there, and so forth, and it soon runs into a curtailment of hundreds of millions of dollars."

Must Cut Cost of Labor.

"There are three things entering into railroad expenditures—the hire of money, the cost of material, which is largely the hire of labor, for it is labor that produces the materials, and the hire of labor. If more must be paid for the hire of money then there must be a reduction in the amount paid for the cost of material or the hire of labor."

"There is so much money to be spent and the increased cost of one item means the decrease in the other two. The railroads must hold not earnings, and, as I have tried to make plain, the total costs are bound to be distributed."

"A check to business is, of course, better than a full stop," Mr. Harriman added, "but what would be applicable to a full stop will be measurably true of a slow up."

Railroad Extension Checked.

One of Mr. Harriman's friends did not hesitate to say that there would be no more new undertakings by the railroads. They have arranged for certain loans and these funds will be used for the strictly necessary business of the companies. There will be no extensions or new construction other than that planned and provided for. The slow up, he said, was already felt, and that there is bound

BRYAN TALKS OF RAIL PROBES

Sees Reason Why Investors Refuse to Lend Money to Roads.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 15.—William J. Bryan, on his arrival here today, granted an interview touching on the Harriman and other investigations. He said:

"The most interesting phase of the situation just now is the refusal of the people to lend money freely to the railroads. The railroad managers say this is due to hostile legislation of sufficient severity to impair the real value of railroad securities, where the railroads have been honestly conducted on an honest capitalization."

"If the investing public is alarmed, it is because the railroad managers in a vain effort to terrorize the legislatures have carried matters too far. If any other answer is needed for the hesitancy on the part of investors, the investigations furnish it, for the inquiries have shown to what extent railroad stocks have been watered. The sooner the railroads are put on an honest basis the more secure will the investing public feel."

Organ's Silence Excites Superstitions.

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—The congregation of St. Mark's church, Grand Rapids, Mich., was greatly agitated last Sunday during the memorial services for Mrs. Thomas Church, who for 50 years was the church organist, when the organ over which she presided for so long refused to give forth music. Although Director Warner tried in every way known to him to get the organ to give its music, it did not respond to his touch. When the large congregation realized what the trouble was it was greatly moved, and many of the superstitious believed that the actions of the organ, which had never before failed to respond, was controlled by the spirit of the dead organist and that she was opposed to the memorial services. The remainder of the musical arrangements for the service was conducted without the accompaniment of the organ.

THE Masquerader

By KATHERINE CECIL THURSTON.
Author of "The Circle" Etc.

Copyright, 1904, by Harper & Brothers

Passing through the enthusiastic concourse of men, they came unexpectedly upon Fraide and Lady Sarah surrounded by a group of friends. The old statesman came forward instantly and, taking Loder's arm, walked with him to Chilcote's waiting brougham. He said little as they slowly made their way to the carriage, but the pressure of his fingers was tense and an unwonted color showed in his face. When Eve and Loder had taken their seats, he stepped to the edge of the curb. They were alone for the moment, and, leaning close to the carriage, he put his hand through the open window. In silence he took Eve's fingers and held them in a long, affectionate pressure; then he released them and took Loder's hand.

"Good night, Chilcote," he said. "You have proved yourself worthy of her. Good night." He turned quickly and rejoined his waiting friends. In another second the horses had wheeled round, and Eve and Loder were carried swiftly forward into the darkness. In the great moments of man's life woman comes before—and after. Some shadow of this truth was in Eve's mind as she lay back in her seat, with closed eyes and parted lips. It seemed that life came to her now for the first time—came in the glad, proud, satisfying tide of things accomplished. This was her hour, and the recognition of it brought the blood to her face in a sudden happy rush. There had been no need to precipitate its coming; it had been ordained from the first.

Whether she desired it or no, whether she strove to draw it nearer or strove to ward it off, its coming had been inevitable. She opened her eyes suddenly and looked out into the darkness, the darkness throbbing with multitudes of lives, all waiting, all desiring fulfillment. She was no longer lonely, no longer aloof. She was kin with all this pitiful, admirable, shining, loving humanity. Again tears of pride and happiness filled her eyes. Then suddenly the thing she had waited for came to pass.

Loder leaned close to her. She was conscious of his nearer presence, of his strong, masterful personality. With a thrill that caught her breath she felt his arm about her shoulder and heard the sound of his voice.

"Eve," he said, "I love you. Do you understand? I love you," and drawing her close to him, he bent and kissed her.

With Loder, to do was to do fully. When he gave, he gave generously; when he swept aside a barrier, he left no stone standing. He had been slow to recognize his capacities, slower still to recognize his feelings. But now that the knowledge came he received it openly. In this matter of newly comprehended love he gave no thought to either past or future. That they loved and were alone was all he knew or questioned. She was as much Eve—the one woman—as though they were together in the primeval garden, and in that spirit he claimed her.

He neither spoke nor behaved extravagantly in that great moment of comprehension. He acted quietly, with the completeness of purpose that he gave to everything. He had found a new capacity within himself, and he was strong enough to dread no weakness in displaying it.

Holding her close to him, he repeated his declaration again and again, as though repetition ratified it. He found no need to question her feeling for him—he had divined it in a flash of inspiration as she stood waiting in the doorway of the gallery, but his own surrender was a different matter.

As the carriage passed around the corner of Whitehall and dipped into the rested by one of the temporary blocks that so often occur in the traffic of Piccadilly circus.

Loder, preoccupied by his own feelings, scarcely noticed the halt, but Eve drew away from him, laughing.

"You mustn't," she said softly. "Look!"

The carriage had stopped beside one of the small islands that intersect the place. A group of pedestrians were crowded upon it, under the light of the electric lamp—wayfarers who, like themselves, were awaiting a passage. Loder took a cursory glance at them, then turned back to Eve.

"What are they, after all, but men and women?" he said. "They'd understand every one of them." He laughed in his turn. Nevertheless he drew his arm. Her feminine thought for conventionalities appealed to him. It was an acknowledgment of dependency.

For awhile they sat silent, the light of the street lamp flickering through the glass of the window, the hum of voices and traffic coming to them in a continuous rise and fall of sound. At last the position was interesting, but as the seconds followed each other it became irksome. Loder, watching the varying expressions of Eve's face, grew impatient of the delay, grew suddenly eager to be alone again in the fragrant darkness.

Impelled by the desire, he leaned forward and opened the window. "Let's find the meaning of this," he said. "Is there nobody to regulate the traffic?" As he spoke he half rose and leaned out of the window. There was a touch of impudic annoyance in his manner. Fresh from the realization of power, there was something irksome in this commonplace check to his desires.

"Isn't it possible to get out of this?" Eve heard him call to the coachman. Then she heard no more.

He had leaned out of the carriage with the intention of looking onward toward the cause of the delay. Instead, by that magnetic attraction that undoubtedly exists, he looked directly in front of him at the group of people waiting on the little island—at one man who leaned against the lamp post in an attitude of apathy—a man with a pallid, unshaven face and listless eyes, who wore a cap drawn low over his forehead.

He looked at this man, and the man saw and returned his glance. For a space that seemed interminable they held each other's eyes; then very slowly Loder drew back into the carriage.

As he dropped into his seat Eve glanced at him anxiously.

"John," she said, "has anything happened? You look ill."

He turned to her and tried to smile. "It's nothing," he said. "Nothing to worry about." He spoke quickly, but his voice had suddenly become flat. All the command, all the domination, had dropped away from it.

Eve bent close to him, her face lighting up with anxious tenderness. "It was the excitement," she said, "the strain of tonight."

He looked at her, but he made no attempt to press the fingers that clasped his own.

"Yes," he said slowly. "Yes. It was the excitement of tonight—and the reaction."

HARRIMAN TALKS ABOUT RAILROADS

In order to have people along their lines to develop business. One train, however, could be run where two are now run. There might be other ways of reducing expenses, but it might also follow that dividends would have to be reduced.

Explains Stock Purchases.
"You have said that if the railroads had been enabled to enter into agreements there would have been no consolidations. Were your purchases of the stock of other railroad companies made for the purpose of enabling you to arrange traffic distribution?"

"Exactly so."

"If it should be held that the Union Pacific could not legally hold the stock of the Southern Pacific, would not the interpurchase of stocks of the eastern railroads be similarly affected?"

"I can say nothing about what the eastern railroads have done. I will say, however, that in the case of the Union and Southern Pacific we have no fear," Mr. Harriman answered.

Roads to Blame for Outcry.
"The agitation for these lower fares is a result of a mistaken policy on the part of railroad managements in the past," Mr. Harriman continued.

"We have been so busy constructing and reconstructing lines with a view of improved service and better returns to shareholders that we neglected the important matter of the relation between the railroads and the public as relating to sentiment and legislation. The railroads left to lawyers and subordinates their dealing with legislatures. They and the people were not taken into full and free confidence—a policy which must be changed. The relations between the roads and the people in their general welfare are not understood. I am insisting that there be co-operation for the mutual good."

"I would like to go out among the people and explain the necessity for co-operation between the railroads, the people and the government, but I am a little too old to begin a campaign of that kind."

Rates and Competition.
Concerning the effect of rate reductions on competition, Mr. Harriman said:

"One road which might have the good fortune to be able to suffer less from a reduction than another would soon have an advantage over its competitor. Every local point on a railroad is in competition with every other local point on another railroad in contiguous territory. If one were able to give better service because of better earnings, soon the local stations on the other road would 'dry up.' The superior facilities of the one would attract business from the other. Besides, you cannot lower the rates in one territory without affecting the general situation in another."

"It will be time to talk of 2 cent fares when the population has increased to such an extent that the gross business will want more frequent service and better fitted cars. When our railroads approach to the trolley car service, when the increased population will provide enough passengers so that net earnings will not be affected by a reduction in the fares, then these reductions will follow. There was a time with the Illinois Central when the fare was 5 cents a mile. It was willingly paid for the service rendered. Then when the population grew so that we could carry forty passengers in a car instead of half a dozen, the rate came down."

Expansion Must Go On.
"The roads must be in a position to earn sufficient money to continue expansion to meet the needs of the territory served. There may be a falling off of business for a year or two, but at the end of ten years traffic will be as much greater than it is now, as it is now as compared with ten years ago."

"The roads must be permitted to be in a position to invite the confidence of capital in order that money may be furnished for the necessary enlargements. The condition of agitation such as now obtains will render it impossible to meet the growing needs of the country. The managers of the railroads will not have the courage to go forward. They can do nothing but sit still."

Explains Attack on Fish.
"My statements before the interstate commerce commission were made under oath. I didn't recall anybody else talking about the matter under oath. I assumed a serious responsibility when I made the statements I did concerning the actions of Mr. Fish."

"It has not been known that the board of directors came here to my house while I was ill in bed and insisted that I make a statement of the facts if the matter came up before the commission. The directors themselves had in mind the issuance

TIRED AND SICK YET MUST WORK

"Man may work from sun to sun but woman's work is never done." In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo and often suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

It is to these women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, comes as a blessing. When the spirits are depressed, the head and back aches, there are dragging-down pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, and reluctance to go anywhere, these are only symptoms which unless heeded, are soon followed by the worst forms of Female Complaints.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound keeps the feminine organism in strong and healthy condition. It cures inflammation, ulceration, displacements, and organic troubles. In preparing for child-birth and to carry women safely through the Change of Life it is most efficient.

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"For a long time I suffered from female troubles and had all kinds of aches and pains in the lower part of back and sides. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following the advice which you gave me I feel like a new woman and I cannot praise your medicine too highly."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women
Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

MRS. AUG. LYON

of a statement. My replies to the commission set forth what the directors had long desired should be made public but which I had refrained from disclosing."

How He Runs His Board.
The talk led up to the opinion obtaining generally that Mr. Harriman is a dictator in the boards of directors of which he is the dominating spirit.

"Let me say," he said, "that the business of our boards is not conducted as in most boards of directors. We do not adopt a resolution and then discuss it, consuming a large amount of time. On the contrary we discuss a thing to be done. Every one presents his views, and it is absurd to say that the men on these boards have no ideas of their own. But as I say, we discuss whether a thing shall be done. After we have decided that, the lawyers are instructed to draw up the proper resolution. At a subsequent meeting the resolution may be discussed and adopted or not."

It is plain that whatever dictation Mr. Harriman exercises in his boards of directors is the result of his careful and consecutive thinking on the subject. He goes into a meeting with the solution of the problem in his mind. It is there because he has devoted his undivided attention to it and reasoned it out. Other members not so vitally interested may have given the subject but occasional thought, knowing that Mr. Harriman could be depended upon to do the thorough and heavy thinking.

Secret of His Success.
Mr. Harriman does not disappoint his directors in this particular and as a kind of reward of industry, the matter usually goes his way. Out of some curiosity Mr. Harriman was asked:

"You have achieved a large measure of success in your undertakings. To what dominant trait in your character do you ascribe this success?"

Mr. Harriman's answer was instantly given.

"To do anything I undertook to do the best I could do. Perhaps I should not put it that way, but say to do it the best I could do. Why, if you are going to be a preacher, not the best preacher you can? If you are going to be anything, be the best you can."

Solution for Car Shortage.

"If one railroad should make a proper demurrage charge, causing freight cars to be unloaded and returned promptly to the railroads or pay a penalty, then the business would leave that road and go to a competing road which might be more lenient," Mr. Harriman explained.

"In consequence there would be a loss to the business of the railroads as well as to general business interests. If the railroads were permitted to enter into agreements with reference to demurrage and to enforce these agreements then all the roads would act in a way to discourage the holding of freight cars as warehouses. Cars would be unloaded and returned for service to the benefit of all shippers."

"In this connection the co-operation of the public would be invited to increase the facilities for receiving shipments. It would mean the building of warehouses for the reception of freight instead of cars being held for that purpose to the detriment of shipping interests in general."

"In the city of Chicago there are probably 15,000 or 15,000 cars standing in the yards. Every car not unloaded is switched about in the yards and one car may be moved a dozen times and fifty cars be moved in order to get the one wanted. This keeps cars out of service, adds to the ex-

J. D. ROCKEFELLER IS BENEFACTOR

Young Illinois Senator Strikes Colleagues Dumb

Then Some One Tells of $5,000,000 Concern Blocked By Standard—He Subsidizes

HIS POLITICAL HARI-KARI

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—Illinois legislature grappled today with the oil, beef, ice and salt trusts, with the net result that prominent members of the senate combine of legislation stragglers were exposed as champions of these extortionate corporations.

The set-to took place this afternoon before the senate judiciary committee, which debated Jones' bill prohibiting rate discriminations in different sections of the state for the purpose of killing competitors, after which prices are raised to the great injury of consumers.

The astonishing feature of the discussion was the championship of John D. Rockefeller by Senator W. O. Potter, a youthful and beardless lawyer from Marion, Williamson county. Mr. Potter amazed his hearers by a eulogy of the oil king, whom he held as a saint and public benefactor.

Potter was at once informed by a friend that he had ended his political career, whereupon he tried in vain to find cover by declaring that if the bill were changed he would be for it. Unfortunately for Potter, however, it was at once shown that the amendment he desired would leave the oil trust free to kill competition by operating peddling wagons disguised as "independent."

Depicts Rockefeller as a Martyr. "I don't believe in so much reformation," exclaimed Potter when Senator Jones, an independent refiner had explained the bill. "John D. Rockefeller is all right and has been much maligned. He is a public benefactor, as shown by the fact that oil is being sold by the trust cheaper than it was. We would all do the same as Rockefeller if we had the chance. If any concern can't stand competition with the Standard Oil company then let it get out of business. John D. Rockefeller hasn't hurt Illinois."

Mr. Potter pulled down his white vest and resumed his seat, leaving the committeemen gasping. His statement that Illinois was not "hurt" by the oil trust was at once controverted by Oeslan Cameron, representing the Great Western Oil Refining Pipe Line company, a down state anti-trust concern, which wished to build a $5,000,000 refinery in Crawford county, where 132,000 barrels of oil are daily produced but was driven out along with other independent concerns, but the oil trust.

Illinois Oil Fields "Bottled Up." "Illinois oil fields, which have sprung into prominence as producers within the last two years," said Mr. Cameron, "are bottled up and made valueless except to the extent the trust chooses. Unless you pass the bill capital will not dare take a chance when local merchants dare not handle the product. Millions of dollars of capital await investment until assured refiners can be protected in the development of the oil fields. It is Illinois' duty to foster its great oil fields."

In Pittsburg. Restaurants have been besieged all evening by persons unable to reach their homes. Several engine houses in Pittsburg and Allegheny are out of commission and quarters have been engaged at hotels for firemen.

The greatest excitement prevails throughout Allegheny county for thousands of buildings are not only surrounded by water in the flooded district, but indications are that thousands of persons will be forced from their homes.

Flood Warning.

Washington, March 15.—The weather bureau last night issued a flood bulletin which shows that the second great Ohio river flood of the year is now in progress, and above the mouth of Little Kanawha river the stages will be from 8 to 11 feet higher than during the flood of January.

The Wabash river at Mount Carmel, Illinois, is 20 feet five feet above the stage. Warnings were also issued of a flood stage in the Missouri river from Jefferson, South Dakota, to Sioux City, Iowa, the ice gorge there being broken Wednesday afternoon.

DEATH AND DAMAGE.

Ride on Flood Bringing Woe and Disaster to Many.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 15.—Many points in Ohio are experiencing the most disastrous floods in several years. Dispatches from many cities and towns representing a good part of the state bring news of swollen rivers and small streams, and of death, damage and privation as a result of the flood. Miami and Muskingum valleys so far are the worst sufferers.

Death Rides on Flood.

At Zanesville three persons were drowned today. The Muskingum river is rising rapidly and nears the high water mark of 1899.

Mayor Deacon gave orders to confiscate boats of owners found charging excessive ferry charges in flooded districts. Some families, it was charged, had been compelled to pay as high as $15 to be rescued from water bound residences.

At Newark and in that vicinity improvement in the situation was noted this afternoon.

In Springfield and vicinity more than $100,000 damage has resulted to property and 200 families have been made homeless. The damage to farm property is heavy.

He was a druggist by profession. His father was a well known grocer during his life time. Only his mother survives, of the immediate family. Besides his mother, Dr. Rogers leaves the following relatives: his uncles, George and John Rupertus, John Rogers and James Rogers, and his aunts, Mrs. Michael Kettler, Mrs. Ida Wilson, Mrs. G. O.
